

HGTV

Dec 16, 2020

Megan McConnell

Today is day number 2 that Nicole Curtis has violated her and her second child's father's custody order. She is refusing to give the child to his father (who has 50/50 custody, btw) for his court ordered holiday parenting time. She has taken the child away from her home and is withholding her location. I'm glad you are all excited that she's coming back to television, though. @hgtv you know she's a fraud, so when are you going to quit choosing for a narcissistic sociopath to represent your network so you can make a few bucks? Shame on you. She may have her social media presence fooled, but you know the truth. It's truly sad that you contribute to tricking decent people into have a false sense of a "romodel". Her hate and foul actions to others will have repercussions one day. People and companies, such as yourself, will finally quit backhandedly rewarding . . .

. . . she's coming back to television, though. @hgtv you know she's a fraud, so when are you going to quit choosing for a narcissistic sociopath to represent your network so you can make a few bucks? Shame on you. She may have her social media presence fooled, but you know the truth. It's truly sad that you contribute to tricking decent people into have a false sense of a "romodel". Her hate and foul actions to others will have repercussions one day. People and companies, such as yourself, will finally quit backhandedly rewarding her for her vile behavior in order to selfishly reap benefits. The truth will come out eventually, it always does. For your sake, hopefully it will be after her episodes have come to an end and you can gracefully bow out. Do better, @HGTV. Stay tuned. #nicolecurtis #fraud #rehabaddict #rehabaddictrescue #therealnicolecurtis #hgtv #diynetwork #discoverinc

Screenshots of alleged social media comment from Shane Maguire's wife, Megan, provided in court documents submitted by Nicole Curtis, which were obtained by Heavy in July 2022.